Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Alleyne et al in view of Adusumilli et al.

Regarding claim 1, Alleyne discloses (Abstract, col. 2, line 23 thru 3, line 67, a high-speed scable switching system that includes a switch fabric (integrated network switch), which used is in a ATM environment whereby there exist multiple switching elements with multiple output/input ports placed in integrated circuits (IC), (col. 5, line 1 thru col. 9, line 49, col. 13 & 14, Table 1) switching elements perform fast routing determinations based on priority. Alleyne is silent on priority switching based on user defined policy/selected attributes. In analogous art, Adusumilli discloses (Abstract, col. 2, line 61 thru col. 3, line 4, col. 8, line 48 thru col. 10, line 35, col. 12, line 8-21) a communication system with varying levels of integrated circuits that include DMA controllers which supports multiple DMA channels, wherein transfer/switching request of channels occur, whereby channels are selected for transfer/switching according to predetermined user controllable priority system, and (col. 10, line 26-35) transfer/switching channel is in compliance with a channel priority policy. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to implement priority switching based on user-defined pattern/policy as taught by Adusumilli with the teachings of Alleyne for the purpose of controlling/limiting congestion in a communication system that implements routing/switching of data and resources.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 12-17 are allowed.

2. Claims 2-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: As indicated in the previous office action claims 12-17 contain allowable subject matter. Although the combined cited art teach an integrated switching system that includes switching packets/resources between devices and switching policies, they fail to teach/suggest a plurality switch ports wherein each switch port includes a port filter configured for determining a presence of a user-selected attribute in a received layer 2 type data frame and outputting a signal indicating the determined presence of the user-selected attribute for generation of switching decisions, detecting the user-selected attribute within the data frame by one of the network switch ports having received frame, a switching module configured for identifying a presence of an output port for each data frame based on at least one of a MAC source address and MAC destination address, and notifying by the one network switch port the detected presence of the user-selected attribute to the switching module" is absent from the art. Claims 9 and 10 depend on claim 8, therefore, claims 9 and 10 are objected to as well.
